

EUROPA PALACE

SANREMO . ITALIAN RIVIERA

Where Italy

MEETS THE FRENCH RIVIERA

Europa Palace traces its origins back to Sanremo's golden age, when the arrival of the railway in 1872 – directly in front of the hotel – transformed the city into one of the Mediterranean's most sought-after climate destinations.

Originally opened as “Hotel Europe et de la Paix,” it was among the first international hotels on the Riviera.

The property soon became a preferred address for European aristocracy, drawn by Sanremo's mild climate, lush gardens and vibrant social life.

Its privileged seafront position, overlooking the historic promenade commissioned by the Russian Tsarina, established Europa Palace as an enduring icon of the city.

Throughout the 20th century, the property underwent several transformations while maintaining its role as a landmark of the city's hospitality scene.

A timeless
ICON

Today, Europa Palace is owned by the Lagorio family,
a visionary local entrepreneurial group deeply rooted in the Ligurian territory and actively involved in its enhancement.

Reopened in 2025 following a major architectural and functional renovation, the hotel marks the revival of a historic landmark through a contemporary approach to hospitality.

The project reflects a clear ambition:
to create a five-star hotel where elegance, comfort and local identity come together, offering guests an experience inspired by the most authentic and refined Liguria.

Among others, Europa Palace is part of SLH (Small Luxury Hotels of the World), a global collection of carefully selected independent luxury hotels, and is included in the Michelin Guide Hotels selection—two distinctions recognised as marks of excellence in high-end hospitality.
